

44.86420, -111.46191

Date

Thu, 03/18/2021 - 08:00

Activity

Skiing

Started skinning at 8:30 am and snow was firm. On our way up crossed by several small, isolated slides that had initiated at exposed rocks, both east and west aspects. On our route to the summit we experienced no signs to snow instability, the snow pack seemed welded together. Gorgeous day on top and fun ski down, even found some corn snow.

Region

Southern Madison

Observer Name

David Combs