Activity

Skiing

We skied the Throne today, the windboard from thursdays wind was more widespead than we had hoped. It wasn't very well bonded, and didn't feel good, but it wouldn't move, either. I dug a pit on the north facing at the top, away from the windboard, and got no results. I tried to get down to the older weak layers and could spot them and get them to break, but I had to wrestle with it to get it to do it. Parking is still limited.
